Technology Happenings!

As part of the last day of Q1, students were given a challenge to design a crane that:

- 1) Could rotate 360 degrees
- 2) Had a mobile trolley and hook block
- 3) Could stand on its own
- 4) Was able to support a 150g (around 5oz) weight as it raised and lowered.

Almost all cranes met the four objectives, and all of the cranes met at least 3. Students were working off a diagram and models they had constructed prior to this, but no direct instructions to follow were given.

While all the cranes were great, special shout-out to AJ and Eugene, who in addition to covering their crane with wheels just for the heck of it, also had a design that was able to lift double the weight. Jonathan and Lamar had a seriously beefy bucket design and used gears and wheels for their pivot, which was extremely innovative. AJ, Eugene, and Jonathan also stayed behind to help me break down the cranes, which was very much appreciated.
